

Artist Inquiries

If you are an artist considering representation at The Grand Hand, we encourage you to first visit the gallery or to study the website to determine if your work fits our level of quality and style. The Grand Hand is committed to providing the best possible representation for each artist's work. We seek solid professional relationships with our artists and strive for open communication regarding prices, rotation of inventory, custom orders and related concerns.

We review new artist submissions twice per year, in mid-March and mid-September. Quality and salability of the work are primary considerations. Work on consignment is preferred but wholesale purchases are made from time to time.

If you would like us to consider your work, please send the following:

1. a resume, biography or artist's statement and list of exhibitions
2. slides, photos or digital images of available or typical work
3. information on materials and technique
4. information on expected retail prices
5. a list of Twin Cities locations that currently carry your work
6. full contact information

Digital information and images are preferred, but if you do send physical materials, please remember to include a self-addressed, stamped envelope for the return of materials.
